

Terms of Use

1. Privacy Statement

ORTHO-SYSTEMS Thomas Böckh is firmly committed to protecting the privacy of all users in online operations. The purpose of these terms of use is to openly present the data-processing processes at ORTHO-SYSTEMS Thomas Böckh. With this explanation of the Terms of Use and the accompanying Privacy Notice, you declare yourself in acceptance. If you have any questions or reservations regarding our Terms of Use or Privacy Notice, please contact us.

2. Registration and Login Administration

We utilise the registration process in order to offer our users a personalized, high-quality service. After you have logged in as the main user (with the start password), you can authorize other users in your company at the "User authorization" section found in the main menu. All users authorized by the main user have access to their company's stored data; e.g. shipped products and shopping cart management. All authorized users of health insurance companies can access their respective company's shopping cart management.

Should any information or an authorized user change, the main user can correct or update the relevant data himself. To avoid misuse, login data issued to main users by ORTHO-SYSTEMS Thomas Böckh and login data issued to authorized users by the main user may not be passed on to a third party outside their respective company, or their respective health insurance company. The responsibility for the authorized users lies with the main user. Should ORTHO-SYSTEMS Thomas Böckh be informed of any non-compliance, they reserve the right to block login access of the customer or health insurance company.

3. Changes to the Terms of Use

Our business changes constantly, and our Terms of Use and Privacy Notice will change also. You will be informed per e-mail of any changes to these Terms of Use and the accompanying Privacy Notice. Your continued usage of our services will indicate you accept those changes. After sending of the changes, you will have the possibility to view, compare and print both the old and new Terms of Use and Privacy Notice at the Imprint section of our Website.

We reserve the right to send you periodic notices about our effective policies. You should, as well, visit our Website regularly to take note of any changes. We assure you, however, that we will never make material changes to our Terms of Use or Privacy Notice without the consent of the affected customers or health insurance companies.
